Council Decides Nothing on Use Of Semi-Pro Ball

Members of the Building, Repairs and Supplies Committee of the Common Council took no definite action on the semi-pro baseball question at their special meeting last night. Alderman-at-Large Charles J. Turck announced today. It was reported prior to the meeting that some of the aldermen objected to the proposed stadium rental fee of $2000 and concession rights as being too low.

Mayor Newkirk's baseball committee had gone on record as favoring lease of the ball park to a local syndicate headed by Joe Hoffman for a flat rental fee of $2,000 and concession rights.

These factors were discussed last night. Mr. Turck said, but no committee recommendation to the Common Council will be drafted until a later date.

Members of the Building, Repairs and Supplies Committee are: Paul Zucca, chairman; and Aldermen James Martin, John Buboltz, Frank Simpson, and Abe Reiley.

Draft May Give Only Part of Need

Manpower Experts Are Directing Thinking at All-Out Lineup of Men, Women

To Record Skills Systems Will Be Set Up to Compile Master Technical Lists

Washington, March 31 (AP)—The 3,600,000 men who would register under the proposed modified draft would represent only a tiny corporal's guard compared with the total mobilization that may be sought if a war comes.

The program is in only the early stage. But manpower experts of the National Security Resources Board are directing their thinking at all-out registration of the nation's adult population in event of a future conflict.

A spokesman for the board created last year under the Army-Navy mobilization law recalled today that Chairman Arthur M. Hill has said:

"In making our preparations for defense in the future, failure to work out policies governing in detail the use of our total manpower—and that includes women—will mean the sacrifice of time and lives."

Hill was referring to the use of manpower in a total war effort, of which conscription for military service would be only a phase.

The first steps toward having a total mobilization plan ready in the event of an actual war are the recording of the technical and labor skills of all men and women. As an example, scientific organizations are attempting to compile master rosters of scientists and technicians. Manpower experts concede there were too many instances in the last war of valuable technicians being drafted into routine military duties.

Act of Congress Needed

However, the board spokesman noted that any nationwide registration of all manpower would be possible only by an act of Congress and presumably only in the event of imminent or actual war.

"The proposed registration of an estimated 3,600,000 men in the 19-26 year age group would provide manpower officials with useful information for planning purposes," it was said. But this number would be only a fraction of the total for which records would be needed if a total conscription became necessary.

The records of the more than 10,000,000 men drafted under Selective Service in the last war, plus the still larger total number of registrants who were regarded as inadequate. The reports on the occupational skills, physical conditions and present residence of many of those millions no longer holds good.

See Spending Possible

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) said today he believes America can spend up to about $4,000,000,000 to toughen its military muscles without skyrocketing prices at home.

But the Alabama told a reporter any bigger spending on the "stop Russia" drive probably

Wallace Delivers Attack On Truman Foreign Policy

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace came to town and fired both barrels at the government's "stop Russia" policy.

But there is no sign today that he switched any votes in Congress on the issues of a draft and universal military training to strengthen the armed forces.

In fact, Chairman Gurney (R-S.D.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee remarked:

"It is evident Congress will pass some form of selective service and may adopt a universal military training program."

But for two hours and 58 minutes yesterday Wallace held the Washington spotlight as the star witness against America's military plans. He spent almost 45 minutes reading a bitter attack against President Truman's policies which he said are leading this country toward war.

And then for more than two hours he faced a barrage of questions from members of Gurney's committee.

In questioning by senators Wallace said:

1. Our leaders should meet as soon as possible with Premier Stalin to get an "overall agreement" that will halt an arms race between Russia and the United States.

2. Russia has been no more guilty of aggression than the United States.

3. The United States' military policy toward Russia changed after the death of President Roosevelt.

4. Russian expansion in Europe is over and the Soviets are not a menace to the United States.

He said he favors "a complete reversal of the Truman doctrine," pulling out of Greece and halting aid to Turkey. He also said aid given to China would be wasted.

Instead, Wallace said, "we should meet with Stalin and get an overall agreement it should be done as soon as possible."

Russell asked Wallace if anyone other than himself could reach agreement with Stalin.

Wallace replied: "I believe I could be very helpful in it."

Wallace said the United States and Russia should join in a world federation which would have a police force larger than the armed forces of any single nation. He said the still holds hopes this can be achieved.

At one point, Wallace suggested the United States should have an armed force of 1,000,000 men, but later he withdrew this estimate saying "I don't know how big the force should be, but it should be modern and well trained."

In discussing Russia's policies in Europe, Wallace said "I would not say Russia has pursued a policy of aggression." He insisted it was only natural that Russia should make sure the nations near her western borders have friendly governments.

"Frankly," he said, "I think it's a question of geography."

As one explanation of Russia's

Ferry Will Resume Service Tomorrow

Service on the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry will be resumed Thursday morning following the usual winter lay-off period the State Bridge Authority office in Poughkeepsie announced today.

It was reported that the schedule will be the same as last year with the first trip from Kingston at 9 a. m., arriving in Rhinecliff at 9:20 a. m. The last trip of the day from this side of the Hudson river will be at 6:40 p. m., arriving in Rhinecliff at 7 p. m.

The ferry, George Clinton, was placed in drydock at the Hiltbrand Dry Dock Company recently where it was inspected by representatives of the United States Coast Guard.

Other elections were Henry M. Cameron, supervisor of the Town of Esopus, honorary chairman, and Holt N. Winfield of Ulster Park, a director. John T. Groves, former supervisor of the town, was appointed chairman of the industrial procurement committee.

W. Dale Swartz, regional director of the New York State Department of Commerce, gave a very interesting talk on the functions of his department and how they cooperate with local Chambers of Commerce. He mentioned that the State of New York, through all the different publicity mediums, is doing its share to attract travelers to visit this area. They also have a special campaign to bring industrial business to this section.

The Chamber of Commerce appointed Charles Elmen-dorf, chairman, to gather further information to improve bus transportation in the Rifton section.

There was quite a discussion on what means could be taken to prevent refuse and rubbish being dumped along the different highways. A few locations where this nuisance was being practiced were mentioned, especially the South Rondout road which runs from Salem street to Connelly. Justice Schirick Presides at Court Session; Pleas of Innocent Are Entered

The grand jury in a partial report this morning to Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick returned 17 indictments, eight open and nine sealed. There were also three dismissals reported.

The three cases in which no bills were returned: The People vs. Harvey Shultis, assault, second degree; William Effner, abandonment; and Reginald Luther, abandonment. In the Shultis case, the grand jury recommended that the pistol permit of Shultis be revoked by the County Judge and Justice Schirick directed that this recommendation be granted.

In all of the open indictments in which the defendants were arraigned, pleas of innocent were entered. The cases were transferred to County Court for disposition and assignment of counsel. Defendants were remanded to the custody of the sheriff and the matter of bail will be taken up by the County Judge.

The open indictments were: The People vs. Richard Conner, Kingston, charged with assault, second degree, on December 23, 1947.

The People vs. William John Valentine, involving an alleged entry to the Pleasure Yacht at Eddyville, burglary, third degree and unlawful entry, on December 30, 1947.

Agreement Boost Up to 15 Per Cent Permitted Where Tenants and Landlords Agree on Lease Running Through '49

Washington, March 31 (AP)—A new rent control law, described by President Truman as weak but better than none, goes into effect at midnight tonight.

Some 50,000,000 Americans are covered by the measure extending modified controls to March 31, 1949.

The President in signing the bill late yesterday said in a statement: "We can not hope to be wholly successful in holding the line on rents by the powers granted in this act."

But he promised that the administration "will do everything it can under this act to hold rents to reasonable levels."

The new law does not provide for any general rent increases, but does permit boosts up to 15 per cent where tenants and landlords agree on a lease running through 1949.

The major change from the old law is the creation of a special Federal Court which has final say on raising or removing ceilings whenever Federal Housing Expediter T. H. Hughes disputes a local board's findings. The law says the court must uphold any board which gives "adequate and substantial evidence" to support rent changes.

Mr. Truman said rents have increased at least six per cent since the rent control law was weakened last June. He appealed for early Congressional action on a federal housing program to help ease the shortage.

It is evident that only through substantial additions to the supply of rental housing, especially in the low and medium price range, can the need for rent control be eliminated, he said.

Raymond M. Foley, federal housing administrator, told a House committee Monday that 1,000,000 new homes and apartments will have to be built in the next ten years to relieve the housing shortage.

Home builders, meanwhile, were told by the Commerce Department that stocks of some of the materials they need probably will be larger this spring than last year. Among these are hardwood flooring, nails, soil pipe and fitting, gypsum board and lath.

But the department reported that production of steel items such as concrete reinforcing bars, warm air furnaces and fabricated structural steel dropped in January from the December levels.

And Securities and Exchange Commission disclosure that home buyers ran up a record increase of $3,800,000,000 in mortgage debts in 1947. This compared with a gain of $3,300,000,000 in 1946 over the previous year.

Meanwhile an organization of building and construction groups—the United States Savings and Loan League—faced a court test under the 1946 lobbying act.

A federal grand jury indicted the league yesterday on charges that it did not give Congress a full report on its lobbying activities.

Henry Strikes Out

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace got a poor vote-getter rating today from both ends of the Democratic party and from the Republicans as well. Politicians agreed that the third-party presidential candidate had an ideal sounding board during the hours he spent yesterday lambasting American military and foreign policies before the Senate Armed Services Committee. But all senators who heard him told a reporter afterward that Wallace had swung hard and struck out.

Communist Leader's Home Stormed by 40 Persons

Columbus, O., March 31 (AP)—Two weeks of heckling by stones and telephone calls were climaxed last night by the storming of the home of a self-proclaimed Communist leader.

A crowd of 300 watched and cheered, 30 or 40 persons who broke into the southside house occupied by Frank Hashmall, 28-year-old former New York college student. He, his wife and child were absent.

Before police came to read the riot act, the gang broke all the windows and much of the furniture, but left untouched four bookcases filled with Communist and other literature.

Sheriff Ralph Paul announced he planned to see if Hashmall, who calls himself executive secretary of Franklin county (Columbus) Communists, could be declared a public menace and forced to leave town.

Hashmall refused to talk to reporters about the incident.

He came here two weeks ago and announced his position in public statements.

A stone was thrown through Hashmall's window Saturday. Then two men knocked on his door. There was a disturbance and all three went to police headquarters. Hashmall failed to file a complaint and the men were released but police promised to patrol his street.

Last night's affray started after the gang began throwing stones through the windows. A patrol car scattered them, but an hour later they returned.

Forty policemen were sent to the scene but the raiders were on the sidewalk when they arrived. Police Capt. Joseph Tibe read the

Can Order Halt Taft-Hartley Act Gives President Power to End Walkout

Washington, March 31 (AP)—President Truman got his fact-finding board's report on the coal strike today and announced he will delay any further government step in the dispute until he studies the report.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman will take the board's report and supporting documents with him on a trip to Williamsburg, Va.

He is leaving for Williamsburg tomorrow afternoon and on Friday will get an honorary degree from William and Mary College there.

Ross said the board's report will not be made public until "some time after the President's return from Williamsburg" on Saturday.

The inquiry board brought its report to Mr. Truman just after noon. The next possible step under the Taft-Hartley law's emergency strike procedures is a White House request to the Justice Department to seek a court order to end the strike.

Under the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, the report had to be made before the government could ask a court order for John L. Lewis' miners to go back to work.

The three-man inquiry board's job was merely to report the facts on the pension dispute which caused the strike, not to make any recommendation for settlement.

The board had to turn to the courts in order to get Lewis before it so that it could get his side of the dispute to include in its report.

The mine workers' chieftain testified before it yesterday "under compulsion."

If a court order should now be issued for the miners to go back to work—and they refused—the union might be held in contempt.

In 1946 the miners defied a court order and eventually were fined $700,000 for contempt. Lewis was fined $10,000 personally.

Asked how fast Mr. Truman might act through the Justice Department to seek an injunction, Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters: "I cannot say."

In the House, Lewis admittedly was the target of a bill introduced by Rep. Hartley (R-N.J.) to make labor unions subject to prosecution under the anti-trust laws. The measure is a proposed amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act. It would prevent labor unions from acting in restraint of trade.

Most Spectacular Test

As the number one foe of the Taft-Hartley Act, Lewis was well on the way toward providing its first and most spectacular test case. He had defied the formal and informal requests of the President's board of inquiry to tell his side of the pension controversy.

The Justice Department was forced to ask the federal court to back up the board's summons.

And he has steadfastly refused to meet a basic requirement of the act to take an oath that he is not a Communist. A bitter anti-Communist, Lewis has blasted that provision as "an insult."

When Lewis responded to the subpoena yesterday, he vigorously denied that he had inspired the miners to walk out by his letter to them on March 12. The letter said the operators had "dishonored" their contract by not agreeing to Lewis' pension proposal. It suggested that the local unions "hold meetings" to discuss this question.

The "meetings" resulted in a partial shutdown of the soft coal industry. It spread rapidly until its effects were nationwide. Steel production and railroad passenger and freight services were curtailed.

If the federal court grants an injunction against Lewis and the miners, his March 12 letter to the membership might play an important role in the legal argument. The court might ask him to withdraw or revise that letter because of its effect.

New York to Fix South Boulevard For Summer Use

No Reconstruction Planned This Year, However Hazards Will Be Lessened

Route 28-A, known as the South Ashokan Boulevard, and adjoining roads which are maintained by the City of New York will receive attention from the city during the coming summer season as a result of a meeting sought by Supervisors Claude Bell of Olive, Harry Snyder of Marbletown and Elmer Vente of Hurley with representatives of the New York City Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

Sections of the South Ashokan boulevard have been in extremely poor condition for some time and the supervisors of the three towns through which the route runs sought to meet with city officials to discuss the road and to seek some remedy. Some time ago a communication was sent to the city and a trip to New York was contemplated to seek repairs on the route.

Tuesday Commissioner John Canella of the City Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of the City of New York met in Kingston with the three supervisors. County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran and County Attorney Frederick Stang to discuss the matter.

When the city learned of the desire for a meeting to discuss the problem, Commissioner Canella made arrangements to hold the meeting in Kingston.

As a result of that meeting Tuesday afternoon held for the purpose of presenting the proposition of needed repairs to the route, the City of New York consented to make a survey of the route and take up immediately the matter of necessary repairs to the route.

At the meeting Tuesday afternoon at the court house the three supervisors presented facts concerning the route and pointed out that in its present condition the road presented hazards which were dangerous and might easily become responsible for serious accidents. It is expected that traffic over this "road" will be increasing very heavily this spring since the Northern Boulevard, Route 28, is now under construction between West Hurley and Boiceville. In order to reach the mountain section much of the traffic to Phoenicia will be forced to take the route.

The meeting was held in the presence of the three supervisors and the city officials. The meeting was held in the presence of the three supervisors and the city officials.

Wicks Hose Is Poll For City's 2nd Ward

The engine house of A. H. Wicks Engine Company No. 4 at 15-17 Wiltwyck avenue was designated as the polling place for the second election district of the Second Ward by the Common Council in special meeting Tuesday night.

This action was necessary because the former polling place, the old Wicks' quarters at 325 Foxhall avenue, is no longer available. The volunteer fire company moved from that place to its new address last fall. The motion was passed without opposition by the nine aldermen present.

After the vote City Clerk Bernhard S. Kramer asked those aldermen to check as to the availability of the polling places in their wards, so that preparations can be made for the spring primary election scheduled for April 6.

Delinquency Bills Signed by Dewey

Children Under 15 No Longer Can Be Tried on Murder Counts

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—Children under 15 no longer can be charged with and tried for murder in New York state.

Such minors were delivered from the shadow of the electric chair by Governor Dewey's signature yesterday on five juvenile delinquency bills. They grant sole jurisdiction to children's and domestic relations courts.

The measures, effective at once, prevent indictment and regular court prosecution of such young offenders for crimes punishable by death or life imprisonment—murder, kidnapping and treason. One amendment makes regular trials for the same acts discretionary for children between their 13th and 16th birthdays.

Henceforth, all children under 15 and some under 16, involved in capital offenses, will be tried in children's court or, in New York city, possibly in domestic relations courts.

Previously, such young offenders, from seven through 15 years of age, could be charged with capital offenses, which had to be tried in the regular courts.

Dewey called the new legislation "a major advance in our legal concepts of crime and of juvenile delinquency," and added: "By redefinition, (these bills) bring to an end the classification of any child under the age of 15 as a criminal."

Dewey, noting that children of 13 and 14 have been indicted for first degree murder "within the very recent past," asserted: "The time is well overdue to state in the law in no uncertain terms that a child under the age of 15 has no criminal responsibility irrespective of the act involved."

Dewey said the new statutes mean that such youthful offenders "will receive careful handling, treatment and custodial care as will be appropriate to the conditions which have been determined to have produced the delinquent acts."

The bills were sponsored by Senator Fred A. Young, Lowville Republican.

Weiser Says 2,500 Men Are Recruited

New York, March 30 (AP)—Maj. Samuel Weiser, commander of the Hebrew Legion of England, reports approximately 2,500 men have been recruited here by the American League for a Free Palestine to fight for a Jewish state in the Holy Land.

Three hundred most of them war veterans—volunteered last night at a rally in Madison Square Park to enlist in an international force in Palestine.

More than 2,500 persons attended the recruiting rally, sponsored by the league.

Weiser, who spoke at the rally, came to this country three weeks ago to spearhead the recruiting. He said 300 signed up yesterday at league headquarters.

The major said the names of volunteers, between the ages of 18 and 40, are entered on card files, but no assembling and processing of men is contemplated now. United Nations officials will be kept informed of the number and condition of the volunteers, he said.

Weiser told the rally: "We don't want American G.I.'s to die in Palestine. We, Hebrew citizens want the right to defend our own country. We want the right and the opportunity to defend ourselves with arms."

U. S. State Department officials have said that passports will not be issued to Americans seeking to fight in Palestine. Former boxing champion Barney Ross, 38-year-old wounded Marine Corps veteran of Guadalcanal, who had volunteered earlier, told newsmen that Washington's attitude toward passports "will not halt my resolve to go." He said, however, that he would not want to do anything to jeopardize his U. S. citizenship or that of any one else.

Western Union Strike Reported as Settled

New York, March 31 (AP)—A 13-week strike of cable and radio employees of the Western Union Telegraph Company has been settled. The strike continues, however, against three other firms involved in the dispute.

The end of the Western Union stoppage was announced yesterday by Thomas F. McMains, vice-president in charge of employee relations. He said no wage increase was included in a one-year contract signed with the 350 operators who are members of the C.I.O. American Communications Association.

The union originally had demanded a 30 per cent increase. Negotiations to settle the strike of 2,500 cable and overseas radio workers against the three other companies were recessed last night with no apparent progress made.

The companies involved are Mackay Radio & Telegraph Co., Commercial Cable Co., and All-America Cables and Radio.

The A.C.A. represents all the striking workers except those employed by All-America who have their own independent union.

The company spokesman said that although no wage increase was granted, a revised pension plan was agreed upon. During negotiations the union had agreed to reduce wage demands provided the companies would meet pension requests.

There was no statement from the union.

Trip to West Is Not Dewey 'Desperation'

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—An aide of Thomas E. Dewey today ridiculed claims that the governor's decision to campaign in Wisconsin and Nebraska was a tacit admission that his bid for the Republican presidential nomination was on the skids.

"It is not a sign of weakness," said James C. Hagerly, executive assistant to the governor. "Neither is it a move of 'desperation.' Hagerly added in reply to such contentions by supporters of some Dewey rivals for the nomination. Instead, Hagerly insisted, "it is the opening of an all-out campaign by the governor to win the nomination."

He announced last week that the Wisconsin and Nebraska speeches were the first of a series of addresses he plans to make in the next two months on the position of the country, particularly with reference to foreign policy.

"This two-month drive, Hagerly added, has been 'timed' to finish shortly before the G.O.P. national convention at Philadelphia in June.

Dewey leaves tonight by train for a speaking tour of Wisconsin tomorrow and Thursday. He will make his big effort in Milwaukee tomorrow night.

He will return to Albany early Sunday and set out again next week for a two-day campaign tour of Nebraska.

Transports Are Delayed
New York, March 31 (AP)—Two U. S. Army transports bringing American war dead to this country have been delayed by heavy seas in the North Atlantic. The Robert Burns, carrying 2,805 dead, now is expected to dock here April 2 instead of March 29. The John L. McCarty, carrying 2,671, now is due April 4, one day late.

Chinese Welcome Reds in Hope Of Shedding Rule of Kai-Shek

(The following review of the Stilwell diaries was written by an AP man who was a war correspondent two years in the China-Burma-India and Allied Southwest Asia Commands.)

By CHARLES A. GRUNICH

New York, March 31 (AP)—General Joseph W. Stilwell's story of his wartime battles with politicians finally has come to light in his own words.

His main target was Chiang Kai-Shek, who got Stilwell fired from China in October, 1944.

But in his diaries and selected letters to his wife, as published in the April Ladies' Home Journal, the general ranged over the whole field of Allied politicians: Roosevelt, Stalin, Churchill, and many more. He called Roosevelt "Old Softy." Stalin was "Bloody Joe."

Stilwell was mainly disdainful of President Roosevelt's political personality, he blamed Mr. Roosevelt for being an "old softy" when the President reluctantly agreed with Chiang that Stilwell should leave China.

Red Leaders Superior
The diaries, now opened more than a year after Stilwell died in California and at a critical time of decision over American aid to fight Communism in China, showed Stilwell in 1944 wrote favorably of the Chinese Communist leadership in comparison with the Kuomintang regime of Chiang in Chungking.

At this time Stilwell wrote: "Chiang Kai-Shek... can't see that the mass of Chinese people welcome the Reds as being the only visible hope of relief from crushing taxation, the abuses of the army and (the terror of) Tai Li's gestapo."

Would Let China Alone
Stilwell accused Chiang and his regime of corruption, graft, bureaucracy and other things that stunted the Communist movement for its land reforms and independent war effort against the Japanese and not because of any leaning toward Communism as such. His aim, defeated by Chiang, was to unite the Communist and Kuomintang armies in a common war effort, and let the future take care of itself. Stilwell referred to Chiang almost always as the "The Peanut" but had other names for him too.

The editor of the diaries, ex-War Correspondent Theodore H. White, student of Chinese affairs and friend of Stilwell, told this reviewer he believes Stilwell, if alive today, would counsel the U. S. government now to let China stew in its own juice of civil war.

General Stilwell's basic conviction, White says, "was that no amount of aid or arms could save China unless the Chinese people themselves throw out corruption in their government."

Will Tell About Stalin
White says Stilwell had the Abraham Lincoln type of liberalism and was keenly aware of Stalin's designs on Asia and the possibility of an open link-up of Chinese and Russian Communism.

More details of what Stilwell thought of Stalin will be published in the 300-page book form of the diaries, letters and background interpolated by White. The book is coming out in May from William Sloane Associates, the publishers. The condensed version in the Ladies' Home Journal runs 40,000 words.

* It shows Stilwell was an accomplished essayist, a forceful, sym-thetic letter writer, and a lyricist who, in the Gilbert and Sullivan manner, wrote an ode to spring in Chungking, the reeks of the swill, and the bow-legged Szechuan wenches.

In neither the condensed nor the forthcoming book version of the edited diaries does Stilwell dwell much on Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, the famous Fighting Tiger leader who has blasted at Stilwell's wartime role in China in his recent efforts for American aid.

His Parting Message
At the end, after Stilwell had been kicked out of China as the result of one of the war's greatest intrigues, he swallowed his bitterness and wrote:

"The personal experience of an individual fades into insignificance in the enormous scope and ramifications of war, especially if there is a grievance connected with it. And when the general result is success, who cares about the squawks of the disgruntled. If a man can say he did not let his country down and if he can live with himself there is nothing more he can reasonably ask for."

His friends feel this indignant Stilwell believed that despite all the battles in the political arenas outside the normal range of an old foot soldier he had accomplished his mission: China stayed in the war to the end against the Japanese.

Wallander Alerts Key City Officials

New York, March 31 (AP)—Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander has alerted key officials of the city's wartime civilian defense organization "to prepare for any eventuality."

Wallander announced the alert orders yesterday, one day after Fire Commissioner Frank J. Quayle disclosed that he had ordered partial revival of the war-born Fire Auxiliary Corps.

"This does not mean that an emergency is imminent," Wallander said. "We are merely taking a realistic point of view in view of reports of world conditions that are being printed in the newspapers."

From other city departments came these reports:

The health department effected a disaster mobilization plan some 60 days ago, Commissioner of Health Harry S. Mustard said.

No Stoppage Expected

New York, March 31 (AP)—The contract covering 2,500 A.F.L. printers employed on New York city's 14 major daily newspapers expires at midnight tonight, but negotiations for a new agreement are continuing with no threat of a work stoppage. An official of Local 6 of the International Typographical Union said last night that if agreement is not reached by the deadline, the union is willing to continue negotiations "as long as we are making progress."

Talks resume today between representatives of Local 6 and the Publishers Association of New York city. The new promise of continued work was made last night by Laurence H. Victory, president of Local 6.

New York, March 31 (AP)—A $100-a-plate dinner at the Commodore Hotel April 19 will open a national fund-raising campaign for Henry A. Wallace's third party presidential candidacy. Wallace and his running mate, Sen. Glen H. Taylor (D-Idaho) will address the gathering. Wallace will address a New York State Wallace-for-President Committee organization conference here Saturday afternoon. O. John Rogge, chairman of the conference, said that among New York communities where Wallace committees have been formed are Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh.

Typical Midwest Reaction Is Farmers Will Plant as in '47

Chicago, March 31 (AP)—"I'll plant just about the same amount of corn this year as last."

Nels Lund, surveying his 160 acres of Iowa land in the heart of the corn belt, summarizes the attitude of midwestern farmers at the start of the third post-war planting year.

Lund is typical. From western Ohio to eastern Nebraska—land of corn and hogs—farmers intend to put as many acres into corn as in 1947. But no more. The Agriculture Department had asked for more.

The spring big crop will be smaller. There will be fewer and probably lighter cattle.

Thinking About Ground

"I'll have more land in grass this year, dropping soybeans," Lund says. The grass will help him build up his soil. And that's something else farmers are thinking more about this year—crop rotation, to save the earth from being worn out.

Lund came to America from Sweden when he was 19. Now, at 53, his Sheldahl, Iowa, farm characterizes rural America—a good sized barn, a cattle shed, a chicken house, a double corn crib. The buildings are mostly new and have electricity.

This year one of Lund's sons will be home to help after studying at Iowa State, an agricultural college. Lund lost his eldest son on a bomber in the Pacific during World War 2. He has two other sons and two daughters.

What can cause trouble for Lund and other farmers, particularly in northern Illinois, is the corn borer. The borer is a pinkish worm about an inch long, the larva of a night-flying moth. It eats corn stalks and ears.

Dr. G. C. Decker, entomologist at the Illinois Agriculture Experiment Station, warns, "If corn is planted early and moth emergence is late, we may well expect a corn border outbreak more disastrous than we have yet experienced."

Over at the other end of the corn belt farmer Frank Ruse is buying corn to feed his hogs. Ruse owns a 176 acre farm about 13 miles southeast of Columbus, Ohio.

"I'm buying grain now and it's plenty high," Ruse says. "It's unusual for me because I normally raise all I need. But even with the present price of feed, I guess I can make a profit on hogs."

But Ohio's spring pig crop will be 11 per cent lower than last year and that mirrors the trend throughout the corn belt. A short corn crop last year, fewer pigs this spring, less pork in butcher shops next fall—you can't get around the facts of rural life.

Oscar Swenson of Nicollet, a leading Minnesota dairy farmer, says, "I look for a good year for the dairy farmer. I think production will be pretty well maintained, if prices don't drop too much."

In De Kalb county, Illinois, which produces enough meat animals to feed a city of 500,000, Ed Safford leans against his pig sty fence and looks at the 40 little white pigs in his "nursery" pen and at the 50 head of cattle in his feed lot.

"I'll grow and market just as much as I did last year," he says. "I'm going to cut down my corn acreage in another year to save the fertility of the soil."

Safford is the modern farmer—young (mid-thirties), a college graduate, he owns 160 acres near Sycamore. He was born and raised there. He has three children. His girl, Sue, 9, rides about the farm on a fat horse called "Mousy."

Cutting on Weight

Ward Cross, assistant farm agent in this meat producing county, says the farmers "are not feeding cattle so fat for the spring market. Whether hogs will be as heavy as usual depends on costs and the market."

This central western territory is not the wheat belt. But down in southern Illinois farmers planted a lot of wheat last autumn and Lester Pitchford, who has a large farm near Irvington, says "the wheat outlook is mighty good for this time of year." Pitchford doesn't expect $3 wheat again, but he's hoping for $2.30 to $2.40 a bushel.

Outlook Improves

Nebraska is a big winter wheat state and the outlook there has improved since last autumn. The state got some severe cold weather this winter but A. E. Anderson, state-federal agricultural statistician, says "the cold didn't hurt the wheat, which was protected by a snow covering." Spring planting of oats is late in Nebraska.

A little winter wheat was planted in the Dakotas, but some never sprouted before the November freeze. This is spring wheat territory and Ben Roth, a Wheatland, North Dakota, farmer, asserts, "my wheat acreage will be just about the same as last year—the lower prices won't mean I'll cut down acreage."

The farm labor situation still isn't very good—and that has something to do with a drop in the sugar beet acreage in Michigan, a good beet producing state.

Dell Wolf, who farms 600 acres near Williamston, Michigan, says he's cutting down on sugar beets because "you can't depend on outside labor." P. A. Smith, a farmer near Mulliken, echoes Wolf and adds, "There will have to be another war before we get any money out of beet growers again."

In Wisconsin married men with families can get modern homes, free milk and eggs, plus salaries from $130 to $175 a month, as farm hands in that dairy land. And Harry Lippert, director of the Wisconsin State Employment Service, says such jobs are going begging.

Outlook on Crops

Here, in summary, is the outlook on important crops for the North Central States:

Farmers intend to plant more corn in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan. Less corn will be planted in Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota and Nebraska. Wisconsin and South Dakota will be unchanged. The gains and losses just about balance, leaving no change for this territory in acreage. But the harvest should be larger if there is no repetition of last summer's drought.

There is a definite switch to oats, with crop rotation to conserve soil fertility, an important factor in this move. All these states with the single exception of Wisconsin hope to have a larger oats acreage. A late spring may mean the hopes won't be met.

More spring wheat will be planted in South Dakota, but less in North Dakota and Montana. For the territory, the acreage will be about the same as last year. Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan seeded more winter wheat last autumn and the crop looks good right now. Nebraska, the biggest winter wheat state in the territory, had the same acreage as the 1947 crop.

The spring pig crop will be down about 11 per cent from last year, and will be the smallest since 1938. Cattle on farms, fewer than last year, probably will not be fed to as heavy weights as in recent years.

Marihuana Indictments

Camden, N. J., March 31 (AP)—A federal grand jury yesterday indicted three former University of Miami (Fla.) students and six Atlantic City musicians on charges of selling or possessing marihuana. The students included Robert J. Wood, 20, of the Bronx, N. Y. They were charged with selling the drug, the musicians with possessing it. Wood is serving a three-year prison sentence for a previous marihuana conviction, federal narcotics agents said.

PATTERNS for PROGRESS

Today, GARDENAID, the Hometown industry, is planning for the future... expanding its vast dealer organization throughout the world, increasing production and plant facilities, investing in scientific and market research, developing new products and redesigning present equipment.

What's it all add up to? In people it means a growing GARDENAID family of 80 to 120 employees, 50 to 75 stockholders. In dollars it means an annual payroll and employee benefits of about $300,000, in local purchases of supplies, equipment and materials, a cash outlay of an additional $450,000. In annual sales an output valued in excess of $2,000,000.

These GARDENAID patterns for progress are making a contribution to the prosperity and well being of the community, county and country at large. That's why GARDENAID is a Hometown Industry.

In production and plant facilities it means 20,000 square feet plus of operating space adequate to produce 3,000 tractors per month at 100 per cent efficiency. In local transportation it means the material handling of over 300 tons monthly or an average of one carload of railroad and motor freight per day.

In employee relations it means full, continuous employment, maximum wages, job security, organization morale building, and a recognition of the basic problems of business management. In community relations a higher level of retail sales and better living for all.

Hartley Would Make Unions Responsible

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Rep. Hartley (R-N.J.) introduced legislation today to make labor unions subject to prosecution under the anti-trust laws. It is admittedly aimed at John L. Lewis.

The bill, a proposed amendment to the Taft-Hartley labor-management act, would make it unlawful for labor unions to combine in restraint of trade.

The House twice has approved similar legislation but it never became law.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 31 (AP)—The stock market extended its bullish mood today with leading issues ahead fractions to more than a point.

Buying orders flooded the trading area soon after the opening. It was the fastest rally in more than a week, and the ticker tape fell briefly behind floor transactions. Although the pace slowed at times, gains were fairly well maintained near the fourth hour.

Stock and curb exchanges again were picketed on the third day of the financial employees' strike, but operations proceeded without interruption.

Demand again concentrated largely on rails and industrial shares which might benefit from heavy defense, stockpiling and European relief expenditures. Commission houses reported some customers impressed by the recent climbs made by industrial stocks.

Leaders of the upturn included U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Santa Fe, Atlantic Coast Line, New York Central, Union Pacific, General Electric, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, Kennecott, and Pontiac American Tobacco. J. I. Case, International Harvester, Amerasia Petroleum, Pacific Western Oil and Transcontinental and Western Air, Superior Oil of California, after jumping as much as 15 points on top of yesterday's 22-point rise to a new 1948 high on early sales, receded somewhat from their best.

Transactions on the big board in the first hour alone totaled 580,000 shares, putting emergency personnel manning quotation tickers to their first severe test since the strike started. Although the floor behind floor dealers for brief periods, an exchange spokesman pointed out this was not unusual in the face of such activity.

On March 22 the ticker was three minutes late when first-hour volume reached 720,000 shares.

Veto Is Expected
Washington, March 31 (AP)—Congressional leaders expect President Truman to veto the $4,800,000 tax-cutting bill before the end of the week. The House Republican leader, Rep. Halleck of Indiana, advised members to "hold yourself in readiness to vote on the tax bill this week." A high-ranking Democrat told reporters the veto will reach Capitol Hill tomorrow. He declined to be quoted by name.

Late Bulletin

Washington, March 31 (AP)—The House smacked down today an attempt to cut $1,000,000 from its $6,025,000,000 foreign aid bill. The standing vote was 112 to 61. The decision hoisted the program over one big barrier on the way to final passage.

But more issues lay ahead. And Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio), in charge of the bill, failed in repeated attempts to get agreements to choke off debate and get on with the balloting on amendments.

Rep. Vursell (R-Ill.) proposed the $1,300,000,000 cut. He called the foreign aid plan a "fantastic, world-wide W.P.A."

Vursell offered his amendment when the House met for what leaders hoped would be the final day of debate on the big bill.

Passage of a bill sooner or later was certain. The big issues were the length of the aid program and the amount.

Want Liner Released

Moscow, March 31 (AP)—Tass announced today that the Russian government has complained to the United States about detention of the Soviet liner Rossiya by authorities in New York. The announcement said the government demanded immediate release of the vessel and assurance that no such action would take place in the future. It said American authorities sought to explain the holding of the 16,595-ton former German ship on the ground that two passengers brought suit because of injuries suffered in a heavy sea.

Out Like a Lion

Chicago, March 31 (AP)—March roared towards a stormy exit over sections of the southwest, Midwest and central Rockies today. It was lamb-like weather in the east and south, and most of the Pacific coast. Snow fell in Minnesota and North Dakota. Temperatures dropped to 15 to 20 above in parts of Montana early today and to freezing in the Dakotas, western Nebraska and Colorado. The worst dust storm in Texas in 10 years was reported yesterday by the Federal Weather Bureau. The bureau in Dallas said an airplane pilot reported dust as high as 10,000 feet.

Bride of 4 Months Found Murdered in Apartment

New York, March 31 (AP)—An attractive brunette bride of four months was found stabbed and garroted to death in her midtown Manhattan apartment yesterday.

in what police said apparently was a "crime of vengeance." The victim was Mrs. Vera Lotito, 36, a partner in the Gotham Travel Bureau at 134 E. 55th street, a few doors from her apartment home.

She had been stabbed in the chest at least six times and was bound hand and foot with neckties. A third necktie was looped tightly around her throat.

The woman's wedding and engagement rings were missing, police reported, but apparently nothing else had been taken from the apartment.

The body was found by her husband, Robert, an insurance company executive. Lotito said he went home to the apartment after he had been unable to get his wife by telephone either there or at her office.

Officers said the apartment lock had been broken. They had no suspects.

A total of 1,685,203 major crimes were committed in the United States during 1946, according to FBI records.

Decision Reserved in Ouster Proceedings Against Wiswall

At the conclusion of a two-hour argument by counsel before Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth Tuesday, decision was reserved in the proceeding aimed at ousting Frank L. Wiswall of Loudonville from his district directorship in the United States Trotting Association and having Edgar J. Baker of Lake George declared elected to the office.

Counsel for petitioner was given a week to submit affidavits but Stanley B. Johnson who appeared for petitioner said he would submit by Friday, since he was to be absent next week. Counsel for the respondents will have a week from Friday to reply. If a memorandum of law is to be submitted counsel will have a week for that and opposing counsel will have a week to reply.

During the discussion before Justice Elsworth the question of fact was raised and Justice Elsworth said that if he found the matter could not be decided from the papers as submitted and he found it necessary to take proof, he would take testimony.

The matter was adjourned to Kingston from Catskill when counsel consented to permit the United States Trotting Association to be brought in as a party.

Originally the matter was directed to the court by Martin J. Burke and Thomas J. Guy, petitioners, for an order against Frank L. Wiswall, Lyle J. Tillou, Elmer J. Kellan, as directors of District No. 9, U.S.T.A., and Frank L. Wiswall, secretary of the U. S. Trotting Association, respondents.

The dispute arises over the counting of 114 "double proxies" which were cast at the annual meeting of District 9, U.S.T.A., held in Albany on February 11. Mr. Wiswall at that time was declared elected by a vote of 497 to 433 over Mr. Baker.

Ask Validity Declaration

Petitioners ask that the Supreme Court declare the proxies which were voted on February 11 and Baker, which were declared invalid by the inspectors of election, be declared valid and that the election of Mr. Wiswall be ruled null and void, and Mr. Baker declared legally elected to the directorship.

Kenneth MacAffer, appearing for Mr. Wiswall, told the court that the Court had no power to declare Mr. Baker elected. He held the only power which the Court had was to determine the legality of the election and either "uphold" the election of Mr. Wiswall or declare the election void and order a new election.

Allegations were made by counsel for petitioners that "for some time there had been unrest" in District No. 9 of the Association which comprises the State of New York. This unrest it was stated "flared up" prior to the meeting in Albany on February 11, and resulted in a campaign for votes being conducted. Mr. Johnson told the court that letters had been sent to horsemen of the district asking them to sign proxies for Mr. Wiswall and he said it had been suggested that if the proxies were not signed by the horsemen there "would be reprisals" at the Saratoga Raceway this coming summer. It might mean that horsemen would not be able to secure stable room for their horses.

The court was told that prior to the meeting in February proxies were sought by the Baker interests and that about two weeks prior to the meeting Mr. Wiswall, on learning of the incident, had started out to get proxies.

Number Present
At the meeting there were a number of members present who voted in person at the roll call. Later absentees were polled and proxies voted. There were 940 votes cast and of that number 114 were the so called "double proxies." These were proxies which had been given by members but for which at the meeting a second set of proxies were produced. The question involved is which of the proxies are the last legal proxies.

The petitioners contend the proxies voted for Mr. Baker, and thrown out as illegal would have resulted in his election. The respondents contend that the proxies which were thrown out by the inspectors of election were proxies which had been legally pledged to Wiswall and that many of the proxies voted for Baker were undated or were dated on February 11, the day of the meeting by some other person than the one who signed the proxy.

Petitioners contended that the proxies were valid regardless of whether they were dated at all and held that the last dated proxy is the controlling one and supercedes the ones given at a prior time.

MacAffer Appears

Kenneth MacAffer, appearing for the respondents, told the court that since the meeting 90 of the persons signing the contested proxies had been contacted and had signed affidavits stating they had desired their proxies to be cast for Mr. Wiswall.

During the argument it was stated that there had been an admission at Albany that the contested proxies cast for Baker had been dated on the day of the meeting. Respondents also contended that the petitioners have no standing in court now since they did not protest the designation of the chairman of the meeting on February 11 or the appointment of the inspectors who counted the votes and threw out certain votes. An allegation was also made by the respondents that the dates on certain of the proxies voted were changed after the member had signed the proxy. It was alleged there had been an effort made to have the proxies sent in signed but undated so that date could be inserted at the latest possible time.

Counsel for petitioners also contended that Mr. Wiswall because of his position in the association held a certain power over the horsemen of the state. "He is a director of District No. 9; secretary of the Association; counsel for the Association; and runs the Saratoga Raceway, being its president and general manager," Mr. Johnson told the court. He then told the court that it had been intimated that there "would be reprisals" at Saratoga if the proxies were not signed as indicated by Mr. Wiswall.

Prior to adjournment it was stipulated that the number of "double proxies" was 114 although there had previously been a difference in that number expressed by counsel.

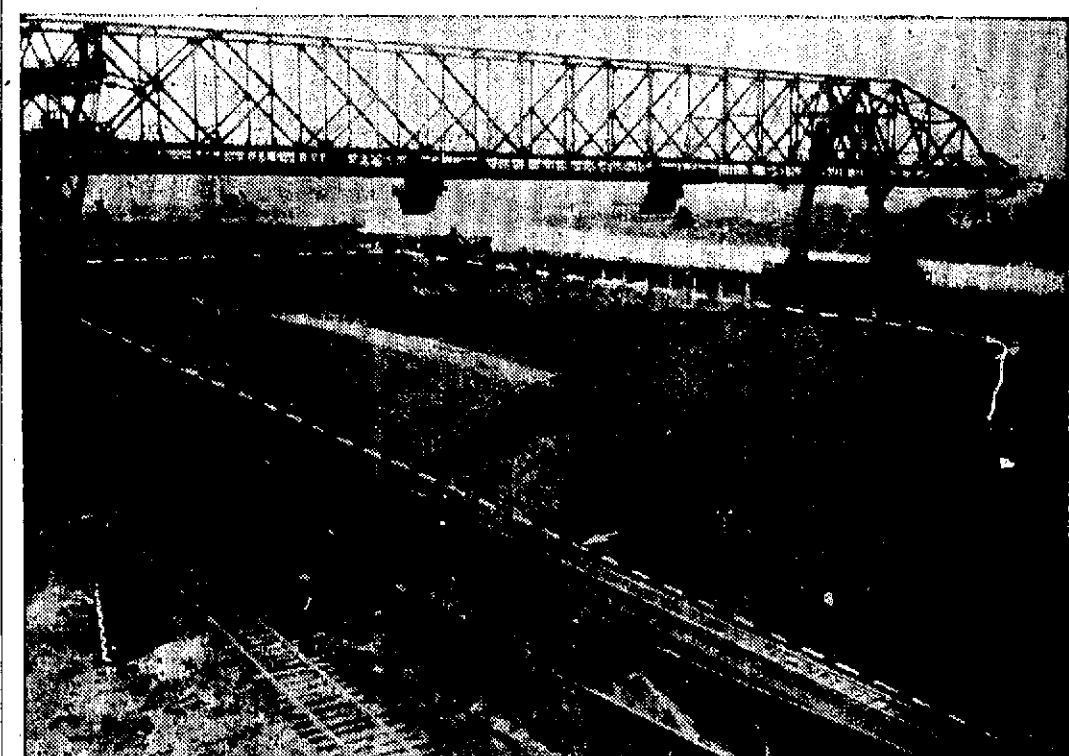

Divorce Is Granted

Gooding, Idaho, March 31 (AP)—Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Jr., was granted a divorce yesterday on grounds of mental cruelty. Hearst is publisher of the New York Journal American and son of the founder of the Hearst newspaper chain. He did not contest the divorce action but did file a general denial of Mrs. Hearst's allegations. District Judge Doran in Stuphin awarded the decree which confirmed a property settlement previously agreed upon by the principals. After the hearing the divorce action papers were sealed from public inspection by a court order issued upon motion of counsel. Mrs. Hearst, who writes newspaper and magazine articles under the name of Lorelle Hearst, took up residence at Sun Valley, Idaho, February 7. She was still registered there today.

Expedition Is Canceled

Peiping, March 31 (AP)—Milton Reynolds today canceled his expedition to find a mountain higher than Everest—less than half a minute after it started. A takeoff mishap damaged his four-engine C-87 plane. Reynolds climbed out, looked it over, and said: "The expedition is over. Captain Everest has won again." No one was injured, but the minor damage to the plane would take weeks to repair, even if parts could be found here, he explained. Reynolds and the Boston Museum of Science sponsored the expedition. They had hoped to find in west China's Anno Machin chain, an unsealed peak higher than Mt. Everest. Everest's height, greatest of record in the world, is variously listed as 29,102 or 29,141 feet.

Market Research Based on Public Sampling by Polls

If Your Gnat Grinder Isn't Selling, Asking Public Why May Be of Help

New York, (AP)—Business is ringing doorbells these days, armed with tools to measure the public's taste.

Field interviewers are climbing front porches, talking to farmers in the fields, or knocking on tenement doors, making sketches of what the average consumer thinks of the products industry is trying to sell him. These interviewers symbolize marketing research, a new fast-growing field.

Marketing research takes its cue from the opinion polls which tell what the public thinks about world issues. It uses the same device—scientific sampling or individuals, manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers—to find the standing of a tube of toothpaste, a cake of soap or an electric motor.

Many a corporation now will hardly take a step involving the marketing of its products without first finding out how the public will react. Frank R. Coutant, president of Fact Finder Associates, one of the 200 independent research organizations in the field, says his organization often is asked to find out what's wrong with a product's sales appeal.

Wrong Name on Glove

For example, a sporting goods manufacturer recently put a first baseman's glove on the market, named it after one of the great old-time baseball players, and wanted for sale to boom. They didn't. Field interviewers sent to boys' camps to learn why discovered that many of today's youngsters could not identify the player. Others were unimpressed, and the rest knew he was an outfielder, not a first baseman and couldn't have worn the glove. The manufacturer renamed the glove for an active first baseman and its sales curve switched directions.

Marketing research consists of more than making surveys, though. Many of the major firms in the field do a lot of desk work over census figures and voluminous economic reports. Some of these like Stewart, Dougall & Associates, not only dig out facts from the markets themselves, but have a staff of consultants to analyze them and tell clients what ought to be done about their problems.

Few Special Studies

The A. C. Nielsen Co., which says it is the "world's largest" marketing research organization, rarely makes special studies. It has built a huge following for its food and drug indices—periodic reports which tell manufacturers just how products in those lines are moving in retail stores. Nielsen also has developed a radio index. This involves a device attached to radio sets in homes selected to give what is said to be an accurate cross section of the population. It records what stations are heard at any particular time.

Arthur B. Dougall, partner of Stewart, Dougall, says marketing surveys are uncovering unusual facts about present business conditions. He finds that although many firms are making more money than ever, some actually are steadily losing ground to competitors who are gaining in percentage volume of sales. If the general business picture pales, he says, "a lot of firms are going to be hit right between the eyes."

Question Mark Brings Manslaughter Dismissal

New York, March 31 (AP)—A question mark has caused dismissal of a first degree manslaughter indictment against a 41-year-old Brooklyn man in the slaying of his wife.

The man, James Harrison, office building superintendent, was accused of fatally stabbing his 34-year-old wife last New Year's Day. In a statement taken down by a district attorney's stenographer, Harrison insisted the stabbing was accidental.

A transcript of the statement was placed before a grand jury. The grand jury noted his repeated insistence that the death was an accident but indicted him because of one exception, a passage which went:

"Q. Didn't she make some effort to prevent you from stabbing her?"

"A. I had intentions of stabbing her. I don't think she did."

The record came before Kings county Judge Samuel Lechowitz when Harrison's counsel moved to inspect the grand jury's minutes. The judge was puzzled by the transcript and asked the stenographer to reread his notes. The stenographer reviewed Harrison's answer to: "I had intentions of stabbing her? I don't think she did."

The judge thereupon dismissed the indictment yesterday, saying he did so "in the interests of justice."

Footlighters Will Present Comedy Next Monday Night

The Footlighters' choice of "Out of the Frying Pan," their first production, was produced with notable success at the Windsor Theatre in New York city by William Deering and Alexander Kirkland. The local civic drama group will present the play as a benefit performance for the Ulster County Cancer Fund Drive, in Kingston High School Auditorium, April 5.

The play involves three young men and three young women, would-be stage folk, who are sharing an apartment. The location of the apartment is above that of a Broadway producer who has quite a hit running and is about to cast a road company. The group rehearses the play but the problem is how to get him upstairs to see it.

The producer who is also an amateur chef comes to the apartment to borrow some flour and the young people try to impress him by staging a murder scene. So realistic is the procedure that the police arrive and the misunderstanding turns into a hilarious comedy.

Comments on the original production include those from Sidney Whipple of the New York World Telegram, "a gay bit of nonsense that makes an agreeable evening in the theatre," from New York Post, "proved to be one of the merriest Broadway events in weeks, it has an underlying ring of truth that makes it human as well as amusing," and from the New York Journal American, "It kept an appreciative audience laughing almost continuously both for its sly wit and its humor."

Tickets may be obtained from the Footlighters or cancer drive committee or at the door.

RECEIVING-LINE ETIQUETTE

This question comes from a sorority: "At a very large tea which we are giving, who should receive besides the officers of the sorority? Some have suggested that the men friends of the officers stand with us as well as some of the heads of other organizations being invited. How should the guests be introduced down the line? It's too much for us."

Reduce your line to four officers or possibly no more than two, if you are including any heads of other organizations as guests of honor. An over-long line is unwieldy and many guests will find greeting a dozen individual hostesses more of an ordeal than a pleasure. Including any "men friends" in the line will not do. The only man who properly should be included would be a notable guest of honor.

But whether the line be long or short, it is of first importance to have an announcer who must ask every name, whether the guest is recognized or not. This will avoid the one outstanding error of asking the name of someone who expects to be recognized. The wisest thing is to have your announcer a stranger so that no one could be offended by being asked his or her name.

One Bride, One Attendant of Honor

Dear Mrs. Post: I believe you have suggested that when there is only one bridesmaid in addition to the attendant of honor, the two girls walk up the aisle together. (1) Doesn't this necessitate their being dressed alike? (2) What is your reason for not wanting each to walk alone?

Answer: (1) Yes, because two unmarried girls do not look well together. (2) Unless the aisle of the church is very narrow, or there is a great difference in their size, the two together make a more pleasing picture.

What Mothers Wear To Graduation

Dear Mrs. Post: What shall we mothers wear to the high school commencement exercises and the baccalaureate services, both taking place at night?

Answer: At public school graduation in large cities, mothers as a rule wear day dresses and hats, both at baccalaureate services and graduation exercises. In smaller communities, women are more inclined to wear day dresses and go without hats in the evening. At public gatherings that are not in church.

Mrs. Post's leaflet, "Conventional Party Menu," includes suggestions for a sit-down wedding breakfast. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin or a stamped self-addressed envelope to her in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Ten Nights at Ducks: And He's Still Sane

Calchester, Conn., March 31 (AP)—Ten nights in a bowling alley brought Paul Gysome of Calchester a new world record for 100 games of duckpin bowling.

The 27-year-old southpaw rolled the last of his ten series of ten games each last night, finishing with a total of 12,722 for the 100 games. That was 276 pins better than the old record, set December 18, 1940, by Gordon McIlwain of Winchester, Va.

Gysome's record try was sanctioned by the National Duckpin Bowling Congress.

The best game of his series was the 13th in which he scored 163; his worst was the 85th when he hit only 93.

How Many Eggs Does A Turk. Turk Need?

London, March 31 (AP)—Turkish wrestlers training for the summer Olympics in London eat ten eggs a day apiece for breakfast.

That builds up stamina, they say.

The British are lucky to get two eggs a week. But the Turks have written Stanley George Brault, housing and catering chief of the Olympics, asking him to see about those ten eggs per man for the wrestling team.

Brault has a lot of problems like this to solve. His job is to feed and house athletes of 55 nations competing in the forthcoming summer games.

Fight Tix Honored

Tickets purchased for the B'nai B'rith boxing show that had to be postponed because the Canadian team of amateurs was snow-bound upstate will be accepted at the door tomorrow night when the boys from the Dominion fight it out at the municipal auditorium.

Dr. Saul Goldfarb, chairman of the sport for the local organization, made this announcement today when he reported that the advance sale of tickets for the April 1 show presages a capacity house.

The Canadians are always good box office attractions, and with Tony Barone, Schenectady welterweight star, as an added magnet, indications are that the S.R.O. signs will be out tomorrow.

Bowling

Reta Frederick and Tess Moss were the only keglettes above the "500" mark in the Emerick Ladies League last night, shooting 513 and 502 respectively.

The K.W.B.A. secretary knocked off 146-71-196, while Mrs. Moss, who now accepts 500 scores with- out hitting an eyelash, posted 146, 163, 193.

Among the other better scores were Marge Jansen's 175-496; Dot Rawling 173-496; B. Arlen- sky 187-497.

Meyer's 503 for Port Ewen was the best triple posted in the Y National circuit. He fashioned a high single of 175. In the upper bracket were Post 178-493; Schultz 177-484; E. Marks 181-496.

Don Slicker's 571 series was the best recorded in the Good Neighbor League Monday night, the Fuller Brush anchor stacking games of 209 and 202 behind a 571 opener.

Jack Blinder, the team leaderoff was off like Citation with 222 but slumped in the next two seats and settled for 539.

Other "500" sets included H. Schneider 210-512; Ben Cohen 190-500; M. Levy 189-519; J. Kessler 190-521.

Flying Saucers made a strong finish with 1006 behind Tommy Amato's brilliant 243-528 to nose out Don's Junkers by 8 pins, 2707-2699, in their bowling feud without end.

The Saucers trailed by 137 going into the third game and rallied to pull the match out of the fire with a 1006 blast while the Junkers slumped to 891.

Amato rolled games of 173, 212 and 243 for his 528. Dick Howard furnished 192-209-214-615 in the leadoff and Chris "Oh, that Beautiful Eye" Robinson 210-531. Les Havens knocked off 255-593. Don Slicker 208-219-178-605 and Ed Sohm 214-581 for the losers.

Firemen Reminded They Must Fight Red Conflagration

150 Attend Honor Dinner for Breithaupt as Retiring Chief in Saugerties

Calling upon his listeners to get back of the concerted effort to stamp out un-American talk now sweeping the world, James J. Deasy of Greenville, a retired bat- talion chief of the New York city fire department, was a featured speaker at the annual Chief's Night banquet of the Saugerties Fire Department Tuesday night at the Pleasant Valley Inn on Route 9W.

Last night's celebration was held in honor of Philip Breithaupt, retiring chief of the Saugerties fire department. George William Gardner is the incoming chief.

"The firemen's greatest job is to prevent fires," the guest speaker told about 150 persons present, "and today you firemen play an important role in this battle against Communism which is in reality a tremendous fire threat against the world. You can help to prevent this threat by con- tinuing your efforts in showing that we are all united behind the men we elect to represent us in Washington."

Delivering a two-fisted attack at pro-Communists throughout the world, Deasy said "fire prevention at home is essential. It is also essential that we prevent such men as Henry Wallace, a mouth- piece of the Kremlin, before he is able to start a fire here in our country."

Reminding the audience that it was not his object to deliver what might have been misconstrued as a political talk, the ex-battalion chief warned his listeners that if we do not show the faith in our government today it may be too late. "Our government may not be the best there is," he said, "but certainly it is the best yet devised by man."

The speaker also commended the village of Saugerties for its outstanding record of such few fires in the past. "Saugerties has a splendid fire record but all efforts must be redoubled to insure that this record may be kept as clean in the future."

George B. Ohley, a member of the board of directors of the Hud- son Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association, as toastmaster, intro- duced the various speakers. The Rev. Raymond Hyland, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, Sau- gerties, pronounced the invoca- tion.

Ohley, in his introductory re- marks, traced the beginning of the Chief's Night banquets saying that the first actual dinner was held in 1923 when 23 chiefs met at the old Maxwell House. The din- ners started on the present large scale in 1924 and have been held ever since.

Acting Mayor Frank Tongue, formerly of Kingston, and now fire commissioner in Saugerties, pre- sented a watch to the retiring chief. Tongue represented Mayor Franklin P. Clum who is now in Atlantic City, N. J. Henry York, village trustee, also presented Philip Breithaupt with a gift. In a brief talk the retiring chief ex- pressed his gratification and said that he hoped the incoming chief would be given the fine, whole- hearted cooperation as had been given to him in the past.

Chief Murphy Speaks
Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy of Kingston was one of the guest speakers and he lauded the ef- forts of the Saugerties volunteers. "It's always a pleasure for me to come to Saugerties," Chief Mur- phy exclaimed. He reported that the mutual-aid system in Ulster county was progressing nicely. Chief Murphy also said the annual banquet held by the Saugerties volunteers was a great tribute to the village of Saugerties itself.

The Rev. Father Hyland, a former Kingston youth, labeled the volunteer fire-fighters the "un- usual heroes who unselfishly defend the village."

Another speaker was John Weinand, town clerk, who joined the Washington Hook and Ladder Company in 1898 and is believed to be the oldest member of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Fire- men's Association. Weinand, who is an ex-chief of the Saugerties Fire Department, later presented a gift to Harold Nike, secretary of the Saugerties Fire Depart- ment.

Other speakers heard were Seth T. Col of Catskill, attorney; Thos. Christy Hubert, William H. Kelly, Francis Hughes, William Doyle, treasurer and clerk; Vil- lage Attorney Morris Rosenblum; Roy Helmsortel, newly-elected member of the village board;

Department who is a member of the board of directors of the Hud- son Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association; and Charles M. Fales of Haverstraw, secretary of the valley association.

He said $125,000 was ap- propriated last year to be used over a five year span on improve- ments. Of this amount $30,000 was earmarked for this year. He also extended a cordial invitation to all firemen to visit the home for inspection.

Other notables at the banquet were Al Erdelick, first assistant chief of Saugerties; Merlin Snyder, second assistant chief; Tru- ties Christy Hubert, William H. The state plans eventually to erect office buildings on the site. State agencies have outgrown present facilities in the capitol and state office building and are scattered throughout Albany in leased quarters.

The tract, approximately three miles west of the capitol, covers about 500 privately-owned lots but is sparsely settled.

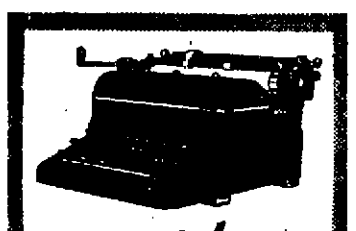

The 1947 and 1948 legislatures appropriated a total of $710,000 to acquire the land.

Typos Alter Their Policy to Follow Order by Court

Instructions to Be Mailed From Headquarters to Locals; Told to Offer Contracts

Washington, March 31 (AP)—The International Typographical Union has officially reversed its bargaining policy to obey a federal court order.

New instructions to I.T.U. local unions were completed last night. They are expected to be mailed from the union's Indianapolis headquarters today or tomorrow.

The 850 local unions are told to offer full-year contracts to the nation's newspaper publishers and print shops.

These contracts would allow the hiring of non-union printers who pass "competence" tests. Government lawyers discussed the new instructions with a union lawyer, Henry Kaiser, for three and a half hours last night and finally pronounced them in compliance with the injunction.

Federal Judge Luther M. Swygert had issued this decree Saturday at Indianapolis.

He found a "probability" that the I.T.U. was violating the Taft-Hartley Act. He ordered the union to stop trying to cause newspaper publishers to discriminate against non-union men in hiring.

The judge also ordered the union to stop fostering the policy under which it advised local unions not to sign any contract unless it could be cancelled on 60 days' notice.

Kaiser did not make public the text of the I.T.U.'s instruction, but said the document follows the outline of an agreement made Monday at Hammond, Ind., between union and government attorneys concerning compliance with the injunction. That agreement included one-year contracts, "competence tests" and other provisions.

The government attorneys said they will hold up any court action to stop newspaper strikes at Chicago and elsewhere until they see how the union's new policy works out.

Hearing Is Postponed

New York, March 31 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board has postponed until April 6 a hearing on charges that A.F.L. printers union locals in seven cities are guilty of unfair labor practices in refusing to bargain for new contracts.

The hearing had been scheduled for today.

It was reported unofficially that the postponement was ordered because of a belief that a new form of contract might settle the dispute between printing industry groups and the International Typographical Union (A.F.L.).

The N.L.R.B. charges against the I.T.U. and seven of its locals arose from employer complaints in New York city, Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Newark, N. J.

Proclaims Army Day

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—Governor Dewey warned today that civilian defense was of prime importance in New York state because "we are extremely vulnerable." In a proclamation designating April 6 as Army Day, Dewey cited the "gravity of the world situation" and said: "In this atomic age, the responsibility for the defense of our country no longer rests solely upon our army and other trained forces, but reaches out to include every citizen." He said a state military force under federal guidance and support, plus "a total civilian effort," must be organized to fill the gap that would result should the National Guard be called into federal service.
